

Mariana Barrucand

Mariana Barrucand has a Ph.D. in Atmospheric Sciences from the Buenos Aires University (UBA), Argentina. She is professor assistant in UBA and professor in the Universidad Católica Argentina. Mariana is currently an assistant researcher at the CONICET. Her interests include climate variability, temperature extremes and recently, agrometeorology.